Artist Statement

I love drawing, painting, and other forms of art because it helps me put down my feelings on paper. I love telling stories, but I'm a visual learner and have never been very good at writing, so it was hard for a while to put my feelings into an outlet until I turned to my sketchbook for answers.

Before starting an artwork, I need to find out the following, why is this important to me, or if I'm making it for someone else, why would it be meaningful to them? From there, it's easier to make decisions on the art mediums, as well as the use of elements and principles of design. Once I discover the why, the rest of the process just clicks.
