Artist Statement

Cars are a way to escape from the stresses of life. They take you to new places and new experiences and this image captures the hope and excitement that comes from a ride in a car. Cars have the ability to transport us physically but they also can improve our mental state and our mood. This image was taken after a hail storm and the sun came out and lit the path for the car. Life sometimes hits us with our own storms and this picture can remind us that the sun will shine, and the path forward is lit with hope.
