Artist Statement

This is a piece I am working on for my AP Studio Art portfolio that is designed to constantly evolve. I built everything in my miniature room on my own to a scale of 1' = 1", using a variety of materials from Popsicle sticks to fabric scraps. This is my general room but overall as I keep working on my project my room will change to different set ups. A room is personal, our own space- emotionally and physically. Emotionally we can and/or cannot feel safe. Whatever we are feeling we feel all of it because the space is so common to us we allow ourselves to react to whatever emotion we are feeling as soon as we enter the room. Sometimes we can let our emotions get the best of us in a space that feels so common to us. Therefore we have the ability to feel anything at any level no matter how extreme. Sometimes we feel it is easier to express how we feel visually than with words. I chose to capture the room in these three angles so you could feel and see the different aspects of "being watched".
