Artist Statement

This piece is part of a bigger portfolio centered around "the things we hold". This specific piece is built off of a mold of my own hand. The flowers are remnants of corsages and bouquets I've received over the years. Just like love, flowers die fast, but the memory of first loves is ingrained in us forever. I was hoping to portray the delicacy of love and the overwhelming feeling that love often gives us for a brief time. It envelops us and takes over our minds and bodies. "as long as you're mine" represents the feelings that grow to become a part of us.
