Artist Statement

My art piece is a drawing of a native woman but I have changed her features because not everyone is fully native American anymore we are a mix of different races. I drew her this way to symbolize that even if our features are not the same as a traditional native doesn't mean that we aren't native ourselves. When I was younger I thought that I didn't look how I was supposed to look, I thought I was supposed to look a certain way in order to be a native but no I didn't. Even though I don't look like how we used to look doesn't mean that I am not native myself I still share some features that our ancestors have and that is fine.
